By Somnath Chatterjee - 09/27/2021

While our lives have been changed drastically over the past two years, post-pandemic life is coming back to normal and countries are welcoming tourism with open arms once again. Hence, there could not have been a better time to plan that much-needed holiday. To make your planning easier, here are the most anticipated luxury hotels due to open next year. Happy holidays!

Six Senses La Sagesse, Grenada

The Six Senses La Sagesse, Grenada will mark the debut of this brand in the Caribbean. It will open in late 2022 and would be having 56 guestrooms, seven one-bedroom villas, and five two-bedroom villas, with no building higher than a palm tree. A relaxed Caribbean vibe mixed with a luxury resort would be spread across 28 acres (11 hectares) plus the views over the turquoise sea. The luxury hotel will also be home to an 'Experience Center' complete with spa treatments, water sports or excursions, browsing the beachwear in the Boutique, learning about the healing benefits of botanicals in the Alchemy Bar, or relaxing in the Library.
